Otherwise, the Ministry of Defence will decide in each case whether an application for a refund of expenses shall be made and if so to whom.

§ 14

In the event of war or the threat of war, Home Guard servicemen may, subject to further provisions issued by the King, be ordered to serve continuously for as long as circumstances so require. During such service, the duties of Home Guard servicemen correspond to those of conscripts called up by the Defence Establishment.

§ 15

In order to provide immediate reinforcements for a unit of the Defence Establishment or the like that is not part of the Home Guard during its establishment on mobilization or during wartime, Home Guard servicemen of conscription age who have been trained for special appointments or duties are obliged, on being so ordered, to join and serve in the unit until they can be relieved. The King will issue further regulations for such service, and will determine which authorities may give orders for such service.*

The Norwegian Army:	Commander of Defence
	District/ Land Defence
The Royal Norwegian Navy:	Commander of Naval District
The Royal Norwegian Air Force:	Commander of Air Station

2. Continuous service shall not be of longer duration than necessary. The commanders specified in item 1 above have a duty to inform those commanders who are in direct command of the guidelines for granting leave to HG forces and to ensure that the numbers of HG servicemen serving at any time correspond to reasonable requirements.

Home Guard servicemen who are granted leave shall be ready to report at short notice (alarm plan) and shall keep their uniform and equipment at hand when they are at their civilian place of employment, cf the supplementary provisions pursuant to section 25.

3. The Local Area Commander shall ensure that those assignments which must be carried out during temporary leave as set out in item 2 above are to a reasonable extent shared among all Home Guard servicemen. However, HG personnel who have received special training may if necessary be ordered to remain on duty even if their unit is granted leave.
4. Orders for service outside the Home Guard shall if possible be limited to the district of command in question, cf. item 1 above. Servicemen shall be transferred back to the Home Guard as soon as possible.

Feil! Bokmerke er ikke definert.

Service during wartime or in connection with emergency preparedness or as a result of natural disasters or accidents shall be shared as evenly as possible among the Home Guard servicemen available for such service.

§ 17

As part of the Home Guard training, Home Guard servicemen may, during the period of compulsory service, be ordered to serve in other branches of the Defence Establishment.

Home Guard servicemen are obliged to serve with a Home Guard unit where they are resident even if they belong to a different unit.

The King will issue further regulations for service pursuant to this section.

AUTHORITY TO ORDER HOME GUARD SERVICEMEN TO SERVE IN OTHER BRANCHES OF THE DEFENCE ESTABLISHMENT

(Section 17 of the Act)

1. For the purpose of training officers or specialists, a Home Guard serviceman may be ordered by the General Inspector of the Home Guard to follow courses in other branches of the Defence Establishment.
2. In the event of a temporary change of residence or absence of such long duration that he cannot perform compulsory service at his place of residence, a Home Guard serviceman is obliged to serve in a Home Guard unit in the area in which he is resident in peacetime, during emergency preparedness or on mobilization.
3. In the event of such absence as mentioned in item 2 above, a Home Guard serviceman is obliged to report his change of address (cf. section 24 of the Act) to the Local Area Commander for the area where he is resident.

4. In the event of a temporary change of residence or such absence as mentioned in item 2 above, a Home Guard serviceman shall via the HG District be ordered to serve in the Local Area where he takes up residence.

After receiving orders from the HG District, a HG serviceman is obliged to report for service to the Local Area Commander where he is resident.

When a serviceman moves back again, he shall likewise be transferred back to his original HG Local Area.

§ 18

Officers and other military personnel who as a result of previous service in the Defence Establishment receive a pension or reduced pay or are entitled to a deferred pension, and who therefore, pursuant to the Compulsory National Service Act, are liable for service during wartime or peacetime in other branches of the Defence Establishment, are correspondingly liable for service in the Home Guard.

§ 19

A Home Guard serviceman who as a result of illness, injury, absence or negligence has not received adequate training may, pursuant to further provisions issued by the King, be ordered to complete the necessary additional service period.

Any person liable for service in the Home Guard who has been absent without leave may, pursuant to further provisions issued by the King, be ordered to compensate for his absence even if he has received adequate training.

Feil! Bokmerke er ikke definert.

(Section 19 of the Act)

1. An additional period of service shall be required in the case of absence from compulsory service through no fault of the HG serviceman as a result of illness, injury or other reasons insofar as this is necessary to ensure that HG servicemen are adequately trained for service in the event of mobilization.

The additional period of service required shall not exceed the number of hours/days of absence.

If a serviceman has been absent for most of one or more years of exercise, and such absence will make it impossible for him to complete the necessary additional service in his spare time or during continuous periods of exercise in the exercise year in which the absence comes to an end, the HG District Commander may decide that the requirement for an additional period of service will be wholly or partly waived.

2. In the case of absence without leave (including time in custody), an additional period of service corresponding to the number of hours/days of absence shall be required.
3. No additional period of service shall be required in the case of absence as a result of service pursuant to section 13, cf section 16, of the Act.
4. Orders for additional service in accordance with item 1 above will be given by the HG District Commander on the basis of proposals by the Local Area Commander. The HG serviceman in question may appeal the decision to the General Inspector of the Home Guard.
5. Decisions concerning additional service on grounds of negligence will be made by the Director General of the National Service Administration. The duration of such additional service will be determined in consultation with the National Service Administration and the Inspector General of the Home Guard.

The duration of additional service on grounds of negligence may under no circumstances exceed the number of hours/days corresponding to the entire prescribed annual exercise period.

Additional service may not be ordered on grounds of negligence during service pursuant to section 13, cf section 16, of the Act.

Additional service on grounds of negligence may be ordered either separately or in conjunction with an additional period of service in accordance with item 1 and 2 above.

6. Any period of additional service required shall be completed as soon as possible and preferably in the same exercise year.

Insofar as it is not practicable or expedient for exercise purposes to arrange additional service in leisure hours, orders may be given for an additional period of continuous service pursuant to the second paragraph of section 10 of the Act and the supplementary provisions issued pursuant thereto.

The King will lay down regulations for call-up procedures.

CALL-UP PROCEDURES

(Section 20 of the Act)

1. As far as possible, at least 8 days' notice, and no less than 2 days' notice, shall be given of call-up for service outside normal working hours unless shorter notice is required for the purposes of the exercise. The orders shall be given in writing or verbally and shall state when and where to report and the expected duration of the exercise.

2. At least one month's notice shall be given of call-up for continuous periods of exercise and courses. A stamped envelope, a reply postcard or the return postage shall be enclosed with the call-up notice.

The call-up notice shall be accompanied by any necessary information on mode of transport, equipment, where and when to report, the duration of the exercise (course), etc.

3. A serviceman who is called up may not fail to report even if he is given shorter notice of the call-up than that set out in item 2 above.

The King may prescribe that Home Guard servicemen in civilian positions or occupations of national importance or of importance to the overall defence of the realm shall be exempted from Home Guard service in wartime which is not compatible with their civilian duties.

The King may also determine that Home Guard servicemen as specified in the first paragraph shall be wholly or partly exempted from service in peacetime.

The King will determine the extent to which a Home Guard serviceman may be granted deferment of service in peacetime if public interest so requires or important welfare considerations so indicate.

DEFERMENT OF HG SERVICE IN PEACETIME

(Section 22 of the Act)

Feil! Bokmerke er ikke definert.

1. Deferment of HG service in peacetime may be granted:
 - a. When official assignments or posts make HG service difficult.
 - b. On grounds of welfare (studies, education, illness in the family etc.).
 - c. In special cases where HG service would result in substantial financial losses for the person in question.
 - d. If a substantial proportion of those liable for service in one enterprise are called up at the same time, an assessment shall be made that as far as possible takes into consideration the type of work, e.g. whether certain specialist qualifications are required and whether several persons from the same specialist category have been called up at the same time.
2. Home Guard servicemen who have not completed HG service because they have been granted deferment are obliged to compensate for this as set out in the supplementary provisions pursuant to section 19.
3. The Local Area Commander (Sub-District Commander) in question will make decisions on applications for deferment. In cases where the Local Area Commander (Sub-District Commander) is in doubt, and otherwise when the HG District Commander so decides, the application shall be forwarded to the HG District for a decision. The appeals authority is the Inspector General of the Home Guard and in the final instance the Director General of the National Service Administration.
4. Applications for deferment of service shall include sufficient grounds and proper documentation. It shall be established that it will be more convenient to complete service in the Home Guard at a later date.

The King will issue provisions relating to the registration of periods of service in the Home Guard as ordinary or extraordinary military service when a person liable for military service who has been put at the disposal of the Home Guard is transferred back for other duties.

REGISTRATION OF SERVICE IN THE HOME GUARD

(Section 23 of the Act)

1. If persons liable for military service who have been put at the disposal of the Home Guard are transferred to other duties, compulsory Home Guard service shall be registered as ordinary military service.

Voluntary service in the Home Guard shall not be registered as ordinary military service.

2. For calculations of the length of service in the Home Guard, the following definitions/provisions shall be used:
 - a. Exercise in leisure hours

Exercise in leisure hours means Home Guard service that takes place outside normal working hours (evening or weekend service) and does not exceed eight hours per call-up. The number of hours worked during such exercises is to be recorded and converted to eight-hour days for calculation of the duration of service.

- b. Continuous periods of exercise

Continuous periods of exercise means periods of HG service exceeding eight hours, up to the maximum stipulated by the

Feil! Bokmerke er ikke definert.

Starting each year. Periods of continuous exercise should normally include a weekend (Saturday and Sunday) unless other arrangements are necessary for the purposes of the exercise. Thus, a period of continuous exercise will normally also include service during leisure hours.

During such exercises the duration of service shall be calculated on the basis of the number of working days regardless of the actual number of hours worked per day.
